Cédric Marsan-Lafond

Cédric Marsan-Lafond is a lawyer in Gowling WLG's Montréal office practising within the firm's Employment, Labour and Equalities Group. He first joined the firm in 2018 as an articling student.

Cédric's practice encompasses all aspects of individual and collective labour relations. He has extensive experience developing documents relating to employment relationships and routinely advises employers on various matters related to labour standards, dismissals, collective dismissals and disciplinary measures.

Cédric holds a bachelor's degree in Civil Law and a Juris Doctor from the Université de Montréal. Over the course of his academic career he earned numerous honours, including the Fondation Claude Masse Award for excelling in his consumer law class.

During his studies at the Université de Montréal, Cédric helped create, and worked as a research assistant at, Québec's first mediation clinic. He also sat on the executive council of the university's law student association and was involved with Lawyers Without Borders.
