Christopher Richards

Chris supports our dispute resolution lawyers in providing excellent client service by keeping them abreast of current awareness and legal developments in their practice areas. He also writes client insights and articles on topics of importance in the areas of litigation and arbitration.

Before becoming a professional support lawyer, Chris worked in commercial litigation and arbitration, including work in the field of professional negligence. During his time with the firm, he has also gained deeper understanding of client businesses through secondments to two professional services firms and two automotive manufacturers.
